Welcome to Preciosa

Preciosa Lighting elevates the heritage of Bohemian crystal through contemporary lighting designs. The company is built on centuries of tradition and the unique art of master glass makers from Crystal Valley, Bohemia. Crystal Valley's natural wealth and local craftsmanship and talent mean the region's glassmaking traditions have remained unspoiled for centuries. We honour this heritage and craftsmanship by creating innovative lighting products that stand the test of time.

Part of the Preciosa Group

Preciosa Lighting is part of the Preciosa Group, one of the world's leading companies in the field of high-precision cut crystal components. The highest standards of craftsmanship, unique technical know-how and the distinctiveness of its designs have today guaranteed Preciosa a place among the world's leading producers of top-quality cut crystal.

100 crafts
under one roof

All of Preciosa's work is done under one roof where one hundred professions come together to craft the perfect light. From the first sketch to the mock-up to production to finishing and assembling, Preciosa's professional team ensures the highest quality and greatest attention to detail. Our advanced R&D Lab is ready to add an innovative touch. Nearly all of our production is done by hand. Glass is in our DNA; we breathe it, sculpt it, refine and shape it.

We cultivate chandeliers

Preciosa creates original lighting designs that inspire and connect people. Various classic chandelier styles have influenced each other over the centuries, blending and recreating themselves to reflect the trends of the time. The Collections portfolio showcases our Cultivation of Chandeliers concept. This is where we use craft combined with new production methods, materials and technology to create chandeliers that enlighten spaces as beautifully as they did hundreds of years ago.

We cultivate chandeliers

Cultivating chandeliers means conserving the chandelier's original spirit but also redefining it so the light complements both modern and classic design schemes. The next chapter is to offer a luxury line of chandeliers featuring a contemporary connection.

Our Collections portfolio offers three chandelier lines: Historic Designs, Contemporary Colours and New Interpretations. Historic Design chandeliers feature revived lighting from our heritage. Contemporary Colours maintain the shape, beauty and authenticity of the historical design but offer fresh colours which appeal to traditional and contemporary tastes alike. These two lines comprise our Iconic portfolio. New Interpretations preserve the design intent of the historic piece but create a modern narrative, redefining the original meaning into a contemporary context. These chandeliers are designed by global designers who believe in the allure of classic chandeliers and their ability to be an unexpected enhancement to contemporary spaces.

NEW INTERPRETATIONS

Rudolf family

CUT CRYSTAL DESIGNS

Cut crystal chandeliers are characterized by a rich style and the amount of trimmings. The brilliance of Rudolf comes from both the trimmings' distinctive cut as well as the cut of the hand-blown crystal parts.

Rudolf is named for Emperor Rudolf II who was fascinated with crystal cutting. The Rudolf family pays homage to this perfect crafting of light. Historic Rudolf is an exemplary traditional Bohemian chandelier. Moving the design forward, the Contemporary Colour and New Interpretation bring cut crystal into modern interiors.

Maria Theresa family

METAL & GLASS ARM DESIGNS

Is there a more regal light piece than this? Maria Theresa's sumptuous feminine curves and shimmering trimmings embraced by a metal and glass arm design can expand horizontally to provide radiance and atmosphere to any space.

Maria Theresa is the chandelier that truly illustrates Preciosa's knowledge of craft and keeping of tradition. All versions of the Maria Theresa feature rosette trimmings. When original chandelier producers were looking for inspiration, they often turned to nature. Floral motifs were popular in many historical designs. Maria Theresa features the rosettes and pendalogue trimmings that are inspired by leaves, shapes that honour this tradition.

This chandelier illuminated the majestic coronation of Maria Theresa in 1743. Found at Prague Castle and Vienna's Schönbrunn Palace, amongst others, this is a truly regal light piece.

Eugene family

GLASS ARM DESIGNS

Enduring elegance and unrivalled beauty - Eugene has stood the test of time thanks to its modern simplicity. Its startling silhouette is formed from central elements that are free from ornateness; the arms and candleholders incomparable in their reflective possibilities.

This distinctive glass chandelier narrates a rich history, being the first complete glass arm chandelier to have been crafted in Bohemia. This story progressed when Preciosa added bright hues to its Contemporary Colours version. Eugene's story was complete in the design of Echo, a tribute to the perfection of glass. The Historic Design was chosen to light up Austrian Prince Eugene of Savoy's Schloss Hof.

Louis family

CAST BRASS DESIGNS

This iconic Bohemian brass arm chandelier was a revolution for its time, enchanting 18th century high society. Radiating luxury, affluence and good taste, this piece is a bold, expansive statement of light. The crisp silhouette and coveted clarity ensures Louis will continue to captivate today's interiors.

New methods of casting brass revolutionised the production of chandeliers in the 18th century. These brass chandeliers were a sculptural work of art and brought an incomparable atmosphere to exclusive events such as the wedding of King Louis XV's daughter to King Philip V of Spain at Versailles.

George family

The George family of brilliant chandeliers is inspired by the so-called English Regency style of chandeliers. Its enduring appeal lies in the fact that the geometrical arrangements of the chandelier's trimmings are put into the spotlight while its structural elements remain in the shadows.

Crystal octagons and drops form the chandelier's body with a traditionally pressed metal belt featuring floral motives bringing the piece together.

Historic Designs

Historic Designs

Tradition. Exclusivity. Elegance. A historic chandelier brings many elements to a space. Preciosa's history of crystal and light has seen us create many originals through the years. We believe these historic treasures can still find a place in today's interiors and are intent on preserving them.

Our Historic Designs are based on traditional Bohemian chandelier styles. Our Collections portfolio features five chandelier styles that most represent this long and extraordinary tradition.

CUT CRYSTAL DESIGNS

Rudolf appears as if it were sculpted from pure ice, so brilliant is the cut crystal. The delicate way each crystal is cut leads to a truly glittering light piece, rich in detail. Rudolf is precisely designed to ensure that the trimmings, candle holders and central elements emit maximum radiance from every angle.

To further appreciate the clarity of cut crystal design, Preciosa has created Historic Rudolf floor and table lamps and wall sconces.

Maria Theresa

METAL & GLASS ARM DESIGNS

What makes the Maria Theresa so iconic is the metal arms covered in crystal. Typically, there is no supporting central bar; instead the chandelier centre is an extension of the design. The hand-blown, hand-cut crystal sphere hanging from the bottom acts as a balancing support. These chandeliers are richly decorated with crystal trimmings, whose facets refract the light thousands of times over. The star trimmings are hand-pressed and glass rosettes cover the arms. Every detail is handcrafted perfection.

The Maria Theresa historic wall sconce is the perfect complement to long hallways and staircases. The table lamp surrounds a space with the sparkle of crystal while the floor lamp provides the opportunity to study Bohemian craftsmanship up close.

GLASS ARM DESIGNS

What makes this classic glass arm chandelier so remarkable is its startling silhouette of timeless elegance and unrivalled poise. Hand-blown glass arms and spheres are testament to the skill of our glass masters. Classic metal finishes give the design colour, yet its elegant transparency still speaks volumes.

The Eugene wall sconce brightens the path of long hallways or acts as a warm welcome in entryways. The table lamps are perfect for illuminating cosy corners or decorating side tables.

Louis

CAST BRASS DESIGNS

Louis is a cast brass chandelier, heavily influenced by Louis XIV's chandeliers. It is a bold, expansive statement of light, radiating luxury. New methods of casting brass revolutionised the production of chandeliers in the 18th century. We still create Louis the traditional way- casting his components and then assembling them by hand so the chandelier appears to be one piece.

When Louis is modified to a wall sconce it becomes a bold piece of art. The intense glow that Louis radiates attracts passers-by to pause for a moment and discover the handcrafted craftsmanship.

George

Eye-catching crystal splendour with a historic design finish, George is the perfect addition to traditional settings looking for glamour as well as contemporary spaces wanting a bit of dazzle.

Thousands of crystal octagons supported by crystal drops form the chandelier's body. A traditionally pressed metal belt featuring floral motives brings the piece together. The chandelier's surface finishes are traditional metal shades – polished brass and nickel. The George flush mount lamp provides the same brilliance to smaller spaces with low ceiling.

Bohemian crystal

More than 500 years ago, Bohemian glass making began to make a name for itself when skilled craftsmen started discovering ways of shaping glass into attractive forms. By the beginning of the 17th century, Bohemian masters were manufacturing glass which closely resembled natural crystal. This is how 'Bohemian crystal' got its name, and it is something we still treasure today.
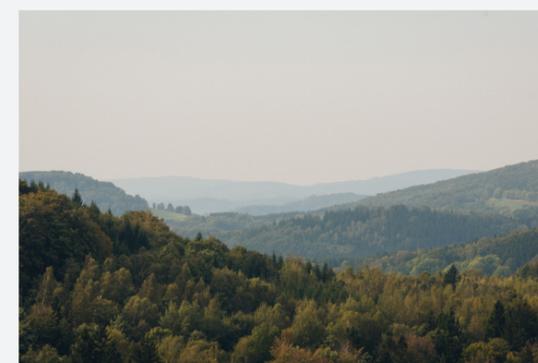

In 1856 the world's first glassmaking school was established in Kamenický Šenov, the home town of Preciosa's glassworks.
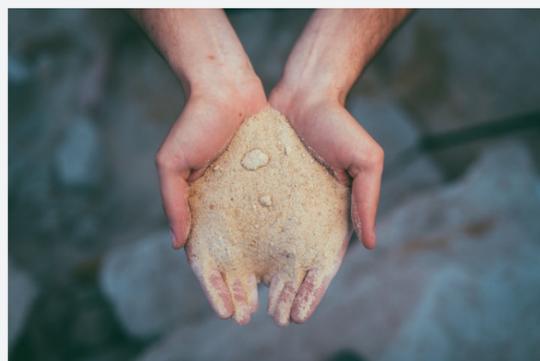

Bohemian crystal is unique because of its recipe. It cannot be imitated. Sand and other ingredients, the climate, trees that are used for forms - these are the factors which make Bohemian crystal so remarkable.

The glassmakers are just as important as the material they craft; and we honour and nurture their prized skills. The crystal that was being created in the 17th century needed clever hands to form it into something delightful. The clarity, brilliance and hardness of Bohemian crystal was perfected by glassmakers who were able to sculpt, cut and engrave it.

This knowledge was passed down the centuries, from father to son. We are the carriers of this cultural heritage, treasuring old sketches, forms, and techniques that strive to artfully combine tradition and vision.

Bohemian crystal is special because of the local, natural ingredients used to create it.

Contemporary Colours

Contemporary Colours

Our Contemporary Colours line gives a lively look to our classical chandeliers. Fresh colours, silk lampshades and frosted glass offer another level of options if a strictly historic chandelier isn't fitting with the design. The light reflections from frosted crystal create a softer glowing effect while lampshades not only add to the warm ambience but allow for the addition of colour. We look at our Contemporary Colours line as a floral tribute to our chandelier heritage.

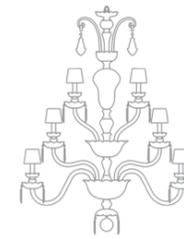

Rudolf

CUT CRYSTAL DESIGNS

Rudolf's grandeur is softened by the pearly tones of opaque glass in the contemporary version of this chandelier. Complemented by fresh colour accents in the form of silk lampshades, it loses none of its original splendour. This is a gentler statement piece for intimate settings and interior schemes. Frosted crystal adds to this subdued lighting effect.

Eugene

GLASS ARM DESIGNS

Injecting the elegant original with a contemporary palette, Eugene is now extravagant, brave and adventurous. The original Eugene shape was inspired by the Dutch-style brass chandelier. We took this shape and perfected the art of glass arms to make it the pure piece it is today. For a burst of style, we added bold colour combinations of clear and frosted surfaces, inspired by the colours of Dutch tulip fields. Frosted crystal with brass details create the softest version.

CAST BRASS DESIGNS

Keeping Louis' elemental geometry, this chandelier produces a softer glow, achieved through the use of colour and white lampshades. Because of the assortment of surface finishes and hues, a relaxed elegance can be brought to a variety of interiors. This light instantly lifts the atmosphere of a space and allows for variations in mood and tone.

Crafted
by hand

The Preciosa factory is filled with professionals who have dedicated their working lives to creating luxury lighting. This is what they do.

Glass is processed and shaped using various techniques - blowing, casting, pressing, or pulling. It´s not only hard work, years of training and skill, it´s also a feeling, working with the breath and other experiences you can only gain by spending time with the glass.

Throughout the centuries we have created a collection of more than 7000 wooden moulds for shaping glass.

Semi-finished glass products move from the glassworks to the glass cutting line for final finishing. Here each piece goes through several stages of cutting and polishing, two areas that are always performed by hand at Preciosa.

Preciosa is one of the few companies in the world that still controls the technology of metal casting into sand moulds. Its particular advantages include a higher artistic level of castings and the possibility of piece production for unique components.
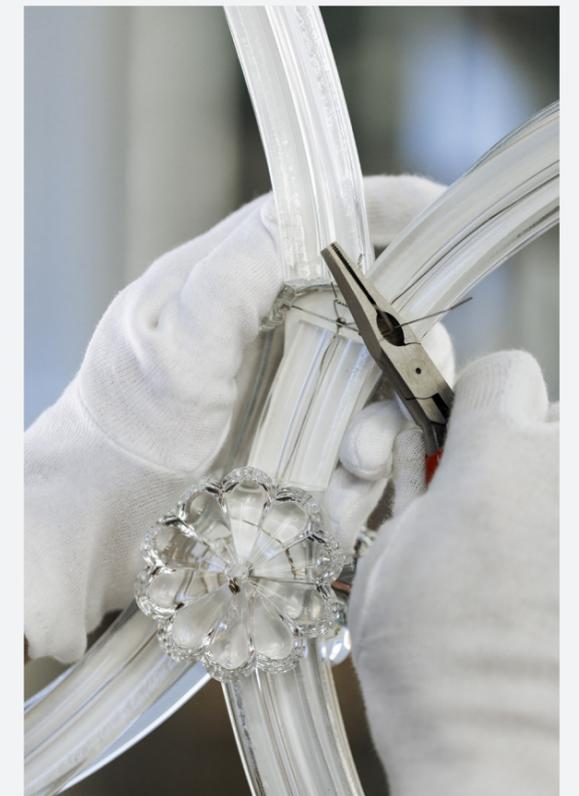

The personal touch is very important to us. That means not only much of the production work, but also our assembly is done by hand. We craft with love.

CUT CRYSTAL DESIGNS
DESIGNED BY LUKAS ULIARCZYK

The classic cut crystal chandelier Rudolf undergoes a design update to create a more condensed silhouette in a still intricate and bold piece. Called Crown, designer Lukas Uliarczyk scripted a new dialogue with repetition and symmetry to emphasize the elegance of the hand blown crystal arms and the light reflecting properties of crystal.

Mr. Plesl is also the Head of the Department of Glass at the Academy of Arts, Architecture and Design in Prague.

Echo

Reflection and form acquire new meaning with Echo, a dynamic take on Eugene. Designer Frank Tjepkema maintained the original grace and elegance but introduced intrigue with unusual shapes and reflections.

FRANK TJEPKEMA

Since 2001, Frank Tjepkema has been working on projects in the interior design, architecture, product design, visual design, and jewellery fields. He has provoked audiences worldwide through his art and exhibition pieces. His work is part of the permanent collection of the Stedelijk Museum in Amsterdam and the Cooper Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum, amongst others. He is based in Amsterdam.

Tell me about Echo. What was your inspiration and how did the iconic light influence your design?
Echo develops the reflective properties of the archetypal Dutch chandelier and plays on its forms to create a completely new contemporary piece. It maintains the original's grace and elegance but intrigues with its unusual configuration and corresponding reflections. The typical candle lights have been replaced by specially developed LED tubes with a beautiful warm glow that connect the chandelier with its mirrored counterpart and propels this classic design into the contemporary realm.

"I also notice that artists are more and more interested in light as a medium."

How did you feel when you saw your finished light?
I was amazed at the spatial quality of the fixture. Echo has a classical reference but takes its place in a contemporary context. It embraces centuries of development in human driven crafts.

What is it about lighting that makes it interesting for you to design?
It's one of those basics, like a vase, a chair, a table etc. Light fixtures are containers of light and diffusers of light. If architecture is basically managing light, with light fixture design the central question is how do I choose to generate light and how will it affect the space and people's mood.

What role do you believe lighting plays in a space's interior design?
It is the essential aspect. It relates to very basic instincts that arise from the time we were cavemen sitting around a campfire to keep warm. A space with warm light diffused indirectly still appeals to the sense of community that arose in those early times of humanity.

Are there any recent lighting trends you find interesting or are excited about?
The LED revolution has definitely opened a whole new era of fixture design. I also notice that artists are more and more interested in light as a medium.

Can you tell me about your experience working with Preciosa Lighting?

I love working with Preciosa because the company is so well-rooted in craftsmanship. It's the real deal! Not a marketing company outsourcing the production. Everything is in-house for maximum quality.

Mercury

CAST BRASS DESIGNS
DESIGNED BY RONY PLESL

A daring piece, Mercury incorporates one of the best design elements of its predecessor: the ability of its surface to reflect light. Designer Rony Plesl used striking metal to create a confident installation while still reflecting refinement and luxury. This light is an excellent example of our Cultivation concept. The chandelier's shape resembles traditional metal cast chandeliers but this interpretation incorporates new technology and materials resulting in a fresh and modern piece.

Fractal

DESIGNED BY THOMAS FEICHTNER

The Fractal family features an industrial aesthetic inspired by nature. A fractal structure is a never-ending pattern. They can be found in nature, for example in the leaves, branches and roots of trees. Our Fractal features metal branches and hand cut crystal plates that mirror these natural motifs through a modular structure and reflecting patterns of crystal light.

THOMAS FEICHTNER

Thomas Feichtner is an internationally established product designer whose work is positioned midway between industry and handicrafts, mass production and one-of-a-kinds. Thomas has designed numerous products for international brands including Laufen, Adidas, Head and Absolut, and realized projects in cooperation with manufacturers such as Vitra, Thonet and FSB. His work has been honoured with various international awards and has been presented at international exhibitions including the Triennale di Milano, the International Biennial of Design in Saint Etienne and MAK – Austrian Museum of Applied Arts / Contemporary Art in Vienna. Thomas is currently the Head of Institute of the Bachelor and Master Program Industrial Design at the Joanneum in Graz.

Tell me about Fractal. What was your inspiration and why did you choose this style?
Apart from the fact that the fractal occurs almost everywhere in nature, be it in the branching, the root system of a tree or the structure of the leaves, it can also be found in its basic features in many historical crystal chandeliers. A constructive structure that branches out ever more finely. Just in the top view on the chandeliers one finds structures that branch out like snow crystals. They all have one thing in common, they are distributed to a volume. Also the distribution of light is about creating a volume. Seen in this way, fractal is a new interpretation of a proven principle. A structural scattering of light.

How did you feel when you saw your finished light?
Great, I'm very pleased. You immediately recognize the modular design, which is not at all reduced to just a few combinations. You can also use it to create elongated snakes and even much larger light clouds, for example for a very high staircase or a long corridor.

What do you appreciate the most when working with glass?
Glass is certainly one of the most sustainable and impressive materials in all its aggregates. It is like a snapshot when glass solidifies. It is like a permanently frozen state, because on our planet it is simply too cold for liquid glass. Glass is not clumsy. It can be smooth, fine and delicate, it plays with light, directs it, splits it into its spectrum and reflects it. Glass is both refined and poetic.

"I have great respect for people who work with glass. It takes a lot of experience to handle it with confidence."
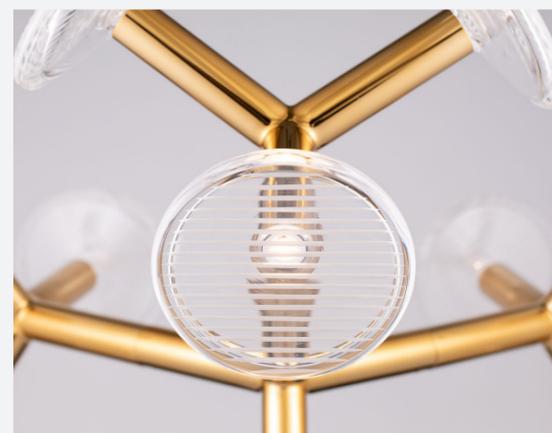

I have great respect for people who work with glass. It takes a lot of experience to handle it with confidence. In design and production it is important not to work against the material but always with the material.

What role do you believe lighting plays in a space's interior design?
Light is often underestimated. Mostly something that is only thought of later. There is nothing that can change a room more than light.

What is your design process?
For me design is the search for alternatives and an attitude towards life. Design is the identity of things. It should be surprising and clever, full of esprit finesse intelligence and charm.

Can you tell me about your experience working with Preciosa Lighting?
I am very fascinated by the way Preciosa experiments with light and glass. You can see how the company is aware of its historical roots but at the same time very visionary about the future. Preciosa's installations are especially breathtaking. Computer generated interactions create new experiences between humans and light.
